

Name: Naomi partridge 14

Date: 12/5/2

Native American homes/shelters - Research Project (mini)

The topic of my research is the: Pueblo

The most significant characteristic of the Pueblo is:

That they were stacked together. They were five or four stories high and to get another story you would get up there with a wood ladder. That meant they could put hundreds or thousands in a clan or tribe.

One of the most important things I learned about the Pueblo was:

That it's was made out of mud, stone, some clay. I thought it was made out of stone. I think it's so amazing because clay is a big resource in New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and some of Mexico.

One of the Pueblo's strengths was:

That the structures would hold up in heavy rain storms.

One of the Pueblo's weaknesses or limitations was:

When the Spanish came the Pueblo people couldn't gather up all their stuff and move because their whole life was right there.