Hello Parents,

Full week...odd weather.
Next week we have FOUR days. Remember that we have Monday off.

The students have done some great work this week on basic stop motion films. I have shared the link (stop motion films) for everyone to enjoy these films at home. We've worked on basics...storyboarding, motion, and sequence. Some students have worked hard on just one or two films, others have created several mini films.

Next week will continue stop motion films. I do hope to get things moving again with MinecraftEDU. We have many more projects and challenges to complete!! We also have a new 3d printing project to begin.

Please help remind your child to READ at home. There are five more book projects due just before spring break. The class (almost entirely) fell in love with the book Mr. Stink. David Walliams is the author and has written several other titles. These might help entice some of the more reluctant readers...hint hint!

Remind your kiddos to look at Google Classroom and ThatQuiz this weekend. Several students have left work to be done...and it's due on Monday the 18th.

Please enjoy the long weekend. I will be resting, but also working on completing the 2nd grading period/semester report cards. These should be coming home next week.
