Hello Parents,

I LEARN is done. OH my that was a new experience. I think we all survived, but it was a little rough at times.

We are now in the last couple weeks of the school year and that means wrapping up a few final items. Unfortunately that means NWEA. We have a lot of flexibility and we will take these end of year assessments when they work for us. This is actually more important in some ways because 4th grade teachers will use the progress to determine reading groups and where support in reading or math are needed.

Next week we will have a little busy work to get through, but we will also have great time for projects. The current plan is to have the popsicle bridge contest Wednesday! This is an exciting time!!

Next week we will look at the current state of grades...status with regards to book projects and anything else that can still be taken care of. This will include ThatQuiz, Book projects and more. It will be a great time for "house cleaning", wrapping up things and just making sure everything not done is addressed!

Have a great weekend and make sure to help your students get book projects done and any math that came home to finish!
