Hello Parents,

Another very full week done...busy, productive and a good finish!!

With a heavy week of working on good daily work, diving into coding and TinkerCAD projects...we've actually been busy. Two kickball wins...and kids practicing in PE, at recess and getting ready for the next round of games...

This week also had exciting events to finish. Dr. Targgart was actually duct taped to the bleachers!! Check out Classdojo for pictures for proof. This was the final exciting end to the domino cereal boxes that wound throughout the school. Find the Youtube link in ClassDojo.

Friday was certainly the culmination of the crazy week. One exciting development that started to present itself earlier this week was the TDI (Therapy Dogs International) change to start allowing dog visits. This prompted the questions to the administration and our health advisors. Buddy the Bulldog, the only current therapy dog at WLES, has been given limited permission to visit. The limit is that he can currently only visit our classroom. Friday afternoon at the very end of the day we enjoyed a short visit with Buddy. For several this was a first meeting, others this was a very long awaited return to something that felt normal. With precautions of hand sanitizer before and after. This was good fun...pictures shared in ClassDojo!!

Oh my goodness...it's been a busy week. I have a few 3D print projects on lists waiting...we've been working on various support structures...it's been crazy, fun problem solving awesomeness!! I am still in awe of the yoga frog salt shaker, there's a Elsa (from Frozen) Darth Vader with horns from Maleficent mash-up...can't wait to print that. This class is over the top creative...

BOOK PROJECTS: 5 projects due by May 27th. <http://mrbrantley.weebly.com/book-projects.html>
