Hello Parents,

Wow...busy (productive) week!! We did quite a long list of things this week. Next week (four days) I hope to get more going!!

This week we completed NWEA (the last finishers), got started with individual reading assessments and kicked off the lessons in TinkerCAD. It's quite a thrill when kids learning to work in a CAD environment is like a recess. I will use TinkerCAD as incentive for the next several weeks.

Next week (four days) we are going to get started with reading groups, continue TinkerCAD lessons, hopefully wrap up the final laser projects. This will be the first week we will have overlapping projects...

I will also be introducing one of the first home/school research/science projects. Be watching for details next week!!

We're off to a great start. It's been a busy three weeks and two days. Everyone has earned a rest this three day weekend. Try to keep reading through the weekend and work on those book projects! I love the ones that have been completed and turned in so far!!

Have a great weekend! Relax and be ready for a full week ahead!!

BOOK PROJECTS: 5 projects due EACH grading period. 5 due by Oct 10.
