Hello Parents,

And...we're back!!!

That's right. Tomorrow (Monday) we are up early, maybe not smiling, but back to school...work...normal.

I hope that everyone has had a GREAT break. I have heard from a few that times were good and relaxing. I look forward to hearing from the rest soon. I am really excited to see what collections, postcards and other memories from this spring break come in this week!!

This week should prove to be a great one! Ms. Moya has great lessons and projects planned! I look forward to seeing some of these great lessons!!

As the weather improves I also hope to be outside for additional hands on projects and experiences. It's that crazy time of year when we can have awesome days followed by wintry nastiness...hopefully we will have stable weather...but I won't count on it.

It's the final nine week stretch. This comes with mixed emotions. This also can bring rise to some unexpected emotions in the 3rd graders. Many are very aware that they are getting ready to leave the sanctuary of Cumberland. With some of the upcoming news...news you should have received over the break, please be aware of your child's upcoming transition.

Round 4...the final round of the great book projects are due May 18th. They are due the last Friday before school is out. I will be offering SEVERAL creative and fun options to make these last five projects attainable to ALL. This is the final Friday before the year ends. <http://mrbrantley.weebly.com/book-projects.html>

BOOK PROJECTS:

There are 5 projects due each grading period. That means 5 due by March 9th.
