Hello Parents,

Wow!! What a week!! We ended up with a busy week with so much going on...and the heat picked up...wow!!

We have been wrapping up 3D projects. This has been an ongoing journey of work and trial and error. Most times I'm pretty good at looking at 3D projects and getting the prints right...but these projects have been ongoing and will probably go up to the end...not the very end, but Thursday morning maybe!

We finished "Holes". This was a fun great movie that follows the book very well. It probably helps that Louis Sachar wrote the screenplay?! Still more connections made as they 'saw' the characters and heard the story again.

Field day was a blast! We spent the afternoon outside. We made sure to have water with us...but there was also a water activity...lucily at the end when they needed it. The class seemed to enjoy their time outside. There weren't any complaints that I heard about being bored or wanting to go inside...that's a good thing. Then to finish the day we saw Buddy and had popsicles. Kind of a perfect wrap up to a big day! I couldn't tell who was happier...Buddy or the class when they saw each other. I love how this class loves him. It was hard to be the "Brantley's Bulldogs" without them knowing Buddy.

It's down to the last four days...YIKES!!! I cannot believe that we are nearly done with this year. I feel like we've gotten to such a good place...and now I must say goodbye :- (It's time to make these last days great!!

Next week will be a busy one. Lots of finishing things...getting last assignments, projects, etc. done and sent home. There will be books and supplies coming home probably every day. I like to spread it out...but that means the backpacks need to be opened and emptied each night.

Have a restful weekend! Four days will be draining...both in the clean out and the emotions.

BOOK PROJECTS: 5 projects due by May 24th. <http://mrbrantley.weebly.com/book-projects.html>
