Hello Parents,

We are just TWO WEEKS until we wrap up this school year. This week we ended without Ms. Brown. She is currently completing Purdue paperwork, licensure requirements and applications. I think we all missed her in the Zoom meetings today (Friday).

Ms. Brown completed the read alouds for the book Holes. She wrote great questions and those are counting as a portion of the reading grades. I know that many enjoyed these readings and were excited to see the story to its end.

We kicked off a writing mini project...actually for a little bonus/extra credit. "I Survived the Coronavirus and Quarantine". This is a slideshow that might be a good outlet for sharing some thoughts about this experience.

I hope to create some fun projects and activities for these last two weeks. I will continue to take grades on any assignment that fits: Language Arts, Reading or Math up through May 15. Report cards are slated to be completed and ready for mailing by May 22nd...so lets get good work done for two more weeks!

Thank you all..parents...for the support and routines you have built at home. I know that this time has been difficult, and some students are struggling to stay focussed. I love some of the stories I've heard from you about breaking up the days with shooting hoops, dog walks, bike rides and more. I also love how many are still attending the Zoom class meetings. Not only are these great for me to connect with your students, but also for the students to connect and see/hear from their classmates and friends.

Let's finish strong and have some fun this last two weeks! Still on Google Classroom and Flipgrid are two challenges (ungraded): the Kite challenge and the Parachute challenge. If you are looking for a slightly crafty project...this might be what you and your student needs!

I look forward to seeing everyone that is able join the Monday morning Zoom meeting!!

BOOK PROJECTS: 5 projects due 4th and FINAL grading period. 5 due by May 15th.
